

Garrison F. Togba, Jr.

Garrison F. Togba, Jr. is responsible for the financial stability and future growth of the Liberia Electricity Regulatory Commission by managing the day-to-day financial operations of the commission.

Mr. Togba is a financial management professional with more than twenty years of experience in private and public sector management in America and Liberia.

Prior to joining the LERC, he worked as an Investment Accountant at PNC Bank and as an Unemployment Tax Agent at the Pennsylvania Department of Labor. Togba also worked at the Liberia Civil Aviation Authority as a Financial Consultant.

As Finance Manager at LERC, Togba manages the financial resources of the LERC in accordance with laws, policies and best practices of the profession so that management can deliver its obligations to the public. His duties cover budgeting, compliance, taxes, reporting issues.

Mr. Togba holds a master's degree from Strayer University, and a bachelor's degree from Temple University in Pennsylvania, respectively in Accounting.